DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 13-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's admitted prior art (AAPA) in view of Dwyer (U.S. Patent 5,869,194).

AAPA as found on page 2, lines 1-9 of the specification, discloses A method of assembling a scrubber which includes a motor, a shaft rotatably coupled to and extending through the motor, a shaft pin detachably connected to the shaft, and a disk coupled to the shaft and having a notch located relative to the shaft pin at a predetermined angle with respect to a longitudinal axis of the shaft when properly assembled.

But AAPA fails to teach the steps of providing a tool body configured to partially receive the scrubber, the tool body including a first recess and a protrusion; placing the tool body adjacent the scrubber to at least partially receive the shaft pin into the first recess of the tool body and to at least partially insert the protrusion of the tool body into the notch of the disk, the first recess and the protrusion being arranged at the predetermined angle to position the notch of the disk and the shaft pin of the scrubber for proper assembly at the predetermined angle with respect to the longitudinal axis of the shaft.

Dwyer teaches the steps of providing a tool body (91) configured to partially receive the workpiece, the tool body including a first recess and a protrusion (122); placing the tool body adjacent the workpiece to at least partially receive the shaft pin (110) into the first recess of the tool body and to at least partially insert the protrusion of the tool body into the notch (86) of the disk, the first recess and the protrusion being arranged at the predetermined angle to position the notch of the disk and the shaft pin of the workpiece for proper assembly at the predetermined angle with respect to the longitudinal axis of the shaft (Fig. 8; col. 5, lines 1-37).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the steps of Dwyer on the method of AAPA so as to assemble the workpiece with accuracy and without wasting time.
